BURGLARS ENTER TWO STANFORD STOREROOMS

Young Amateurs Make Bungling Job And Police Expect To Have Them Behind Bars Soon

Hold, had burglars were busy again in Stanford last Thursday night and entered the storerooms of Severance & Son and Cummins & Wearon without, however obtaining much to pay them for their night's labor. At the latter place they got only 25 cents out of a tie case while from Severance store they failed to secure anything of value the safe resisting their efforts to blow it open with gunpowder. Had they gotten into it, however, their labor would have been fruitless, for since the robbery of Cummins & Wearon's safe several months ago when $31 was secured, most of the merchants have been taking their ready cash to bank late in the afternoon and Mr. Severance is one of those who keep nothing on hand at night.

It has only been two weeks since a thief entered Severance & Son's store and endeavored to burglarize it then, but went away without molesting the safe. At that time he prized an iron bar off one of the lower windows, and secured entrance. He was too foxy to take any articles of clothing, and seemed evidently to be on the hunt for money, and left without any booty.

When he returned last Thursday night, the marauder entered the same way that he did before by prizing off one of the bars from a lower window. Albert Severance had left several shotgun shells standing on a shelf in the basement and the burglars cut them with a knife and emptied the powder out. They then drilled a couple of holes in the door to the safe and poured the powder in setting it off with a fuse. No one heard the explosion, which did but little damage to the safe, tearing off the knob but not disturbing the lock. After tinkering about for a while and finding themselves unable to get in, the young men left and went across the street to Cummins & Wearon's store where a better haul had been obtained a few months before.

This time the chief burglar who was evidently the same fellow who did the work before, had little trouble getting into the safe. They had probably preserved or made a key after their previous experience with this safe and so opened it without doing much damage. Their pains went for naught, however, in this case also, for all the money taken in during the day had been deposited in bank as had been done at Severance & Son's. The marauders made an inspection of the different show cases, however, and picked up a quarter which was laying in one. They took care, here, too not to take clothing or goods by which they might be identified or prove a clew later. Entrance was effected into this storeroom by the same means that it was entered when robbed before. The heavy wire screen was cut off a back window, and the sash prized open.

The young men who are getting into all this devilry about town are pretty well known, it is generally believed. Chief of Police Carter says that he is mortally certain who they are and is only waiting for a few developments to place them under arrest.

Now, that these young men have grown so bold as to attempt to rob two stores in one night no one would be surprised at what they might attempt next, but they are sure to land behind the bars with a nice striped suit of clothes apiece if they keep up their present gait.

She is under bond, Bryant is in jail and Messer was fined $75. Corbin, like Stanford, is supposed to be a dry town.

The bride is the adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Zimmer proprietor of Kengarian and a pretty and attractive blonde. Judge Walker and bride left for a bridal trip to Martinsville Indiana.

Rev. H. C. Morrison, one of the greatest men in the Methodist church in the South, lectured here Saturday night and then preached twice on Sunday, and was heard each time by large congregations. He lectured at the court house on Saturday night to a good crowd on "Pure Evangelism Around The World," and delivered two splendid sermons on Sunday at the Methodist church in the morning and at a union service at the Christian church in the evening.

Dr. Morrison held his first pastorate when a young minister, at the Stanford Methodist church about 30 years ago, and has always held a warm spot in the hearts of the people here. He was given most cordial greeting by his many friends.

BUSTLE—SMITH

Miss Amanda Bustle, the attractive young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bustle, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony last Thursday to Mr. W. R. Smith, a well known and popular young farmer of the Plato section of Pulaski county. They drove to Preachersville where Rev. J. E. Roberts said the words which made them man and wife. Both of these young people have a wide circle of friends who will extend congratulations and wish them every happiness. They will move to a nice little farm near Stanford.

TEMPERANCE COLUMN

This space is engaged by the Temperance Committee of Lincoln County.

Shall the open saloon be permitted to return to Lincoln county? The voters of the county are to determine this matter on Feb. 10. The issue is a clear and definite one. Other questions do not enter into and complicate the consideration of the matter before us. It is a moral question rather than a political one. All citizens must take sides on the matter if they have any concern for the moral welfare of the county and its various communities. Neutrality is impossible for the earnest-minded man.

It is not too soon to take a decisive stand on the question. We believe there is every reason to hope that the undertaking to restore the saloon will prove a failure but our hopes will not be realized unless there is a strong effort made to arouse public sentiment. Indifference or lukewarmness with regard to the matter will be fatal to the success of the cause. The advocates of the saloon must be brought to see that the feeling of the people who favor prohibition is not merely a force to be recognized, but a force that is strong, vigorous and determined.

There is a great call, therefore, for earnest consideration and prompt and decisive action. Let the call be heard and let every friend of law and order, every friend of decency and purity, every citizen who has the moral welfare of his community at heart, enlist in the anti-saloon crusade, and let it be a clean fight for righteousness.

KILLING NEAR BRODHEAD

Morris Farris Shoots Man Named Woods To Death With Shotgun

Brodhead, Dec. 18. Morris Farris, a well known citizen of this section of Rockcastle, shot and killed a man named Woods on the farm of J. J. McCall, on Negro Creek, where both worked. Farris was taken to Mt. Vernon, where, after an examining trial, he was held to await the action of the grand jury under $2,000 bond, which he furnished. Wood, the dead man lingered a day and then passed away. He was struck twice with the loads from a shotgun. Conflicting stories are told concerning the killing, and it is expected that the facts will be brought out fully at the trial in circuit court.

TRAYLOR DISTILLERY TO REMAIN UNDER THE NAME

A. T. Traylor & Co., Buy Big Plant At Public Sale—Estate Sold at Auction Friday

The celebrated Traylor's distillery located on the Dudderar's Mill road, about five miles from Stanford, will not go out of the family name, and the famous brand of Edgewood whiskey manufactured there for so many years will continue to find that place its home.

This was decided when on Friday the estate of the late W. H. Traylor was put up and sold at public outcry. Under the firm name of A. T. Traylor & Company, Mr. Traylor's brother, A. T. Traylor bought the home place consisting of the distillery, the house and about 310 acres of land at $75.25 an acre, or $23,327.50. The distillery will continue to be operated as usual under the firm name A. T. Traylor & Co., by Mr. Traylor and his sons, who are his partners and in connection with Paxton Bros., of Cincinnati.

The old John Traylor distillery at Gilbert's Creek was bought by J. W. West who has been associated with Henry Traylor for so long in the management of the Traylor distillery. The price Mr. West paid for this property was $875.

A. T. Traylor & Company also bought the Dudderar's Mill property consisting of 137 acres of land, paying therefor $63 an acre while the John Traylor farm went to W. J. Holtzclaw for $40 an acre.

These four pieces of property comprise the bulk of the estate of the deceased and were sold under the hammer by Executor J. B. Paxton, in compliance with the wishes of Mr. Traylor, as expressed in his will.

A goodly bunch of horses, mules and cattle were also offered for sale and found ready buyers, though the prices realized were not high. The bottom seems to have dropped out of the mule market for the present and low prices are the rule.

Ten shares of Lincoln County National Bank stock sold in blocks of five shares five going to J. L. Anderson at $210 a share and five to W. S. Burch at $210.16 a share. Four shares of the Stanford Creamery Company were sold to Joe Chancellor at $12 a share.

A large crowd was present at the sale, notwithstanding the very wet weather and Col. J. P. Chandler, who cried the sale, kept things moving. The list of the stock sales etc. is as follows:

Six-year-old mare mule to J. W. West $100.
Six-year-old horse mule B. W. McGuffey $100.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAYERS

To Present Great Comedy "The Rivals" on Night of Dec. 22.

On Friday evening December 22, the members of Department of Expression of the Stanford High school will present Richard Sheridan's great comedy entitled "The Rivals". The characters of the play possess extraordinary talent and have been under the training of Miss Jackson, for the past four weeks. This masterpiece of Sheridan is comedy from beginning to end. The old maxim "anything is fair in love and war" is in this comedy clearly shown.

Morrison Bright as Sir Anthony Absolute acts with his characteristic ability. Miss Elizabeth Higgins as Mrs. Malaprop and Miss Mary Kendrick Dudderar as Lydia Languish, show marked ability. Will McCarty as Sir Lucius O'Trigger, Wm. Grimes as Fag, John M. Waters as David and Matsy Grimes as Lucy, are prominent figures in the popular comedy.

The Coleman brothers representing the characters of Bob Archer and Capt. Absolute are the rivals, seeking the hand of Miss Lydia Languish. These employ all kinds of stratagem to win the young lady but when one finally wins her hand, the other manfully acknowledges his defeat and congratulates his lucky rival. The play is well worth witnessing and all would be profitably entertained by attending. Popular prices will be charged 25 35 and 50 cents.

For nearly a century and a half "The Rivals" has kept its place in America's theatrical repertory never failing to please an audience. There is a continual bustle of action mixed with surprises and an ever complicating plot which always assures success.

STANFORD BANKS TO CUT OUT OVERDRAFTS

Issue Notices to Their Patrons That Practice Is In Violation of Laws And Must Cease

Stanford's banks are falling in line with other financial institutions of the state which are cutting out the overdraft habit among their patrons. All three of the local institutions are issuing notices to their customers that they will have to discontinue this practice in order to comply with the national and state banking laws. The three banks have sent out the following notice to their customers and friends, explaining their position:

OVERDRAFTS.

In order to comply with the requirements of the National Banking law, and the State Banking Department, the three banks of Stanford desire to comply with the letter of the law, that no overdrafts can be legally granted. The Supreme Court of the United States has decided that overdraft constitute a misapplication of the funds of the bank, and the Comptroller of the Currency and the State Banking Department have required bank officers to eliminate this usage in the management of banks. In the future the respective banks in granting credit to their customers will require the same to be made in the form of direct loans and discounts instead of the overdraft practice, existing in the past.
